RE: Hector Huertas v. Citigroup, Inc., et al.
No. 13-2050-RMB-JS

Dear Judge Bumb:

We represent Citibank, N.A., incorrectly identified as Citigroup, Inc., d/b/a Citi Bank, North America ("Citibank") in the above-captioned matter. Our Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint is presently pending with the Court (Doc.12) and is returnable July 1, 2013. On June 14, 2013, Plaintiff filed a response to Citibank's Motion which was styled as a Motion for Summary Judgment, returnable July 15, 2013 (Doc. 19). Since these Motions are inter-related, it would seem to make sense for them to be assigned to the same Motion day and decided together. Additionally, if the Motions are decided together, Citibank will be able to file a single responsive brief both in support of its own Motion and opposing Plaintiff's Motion.

Accordingly, I respectfully request that Citibank's Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint be continued from July 1, 2013 to July 15, 2013. This request was discussed among the parties during an initial conference before Magistrate Judge Schneider and neither Mr. Huertas or counsel for co-defendant Equifax, Inc. object to this proposal.

Please contact me if you require anything further. Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully submitted;

s/ Joan P. Depfer
